

Big Increase In Producing Steel Coming

NEW YORK (AP)—The steel industry plans to spend about three billion dollars over the next three years to expand productive capacity by 15 million tons, an industry survey shows.

Benjamin F. Fairless, president of the Iron and Steel Institute, announced the survey results yesterday and said they forecast the biggest three-year expansion program in the industry's history.

For the past 10 years steel companies have been expanding at the rate of about 3 1/2 million tons a year and have spent seven million dollars on expansion and modernization, Fairless said.

The increase in the expansion rate, he said, shows the industry's confidence in the economic growth of the nation.

The over-all steel industry expansion plans were announced a short time after General Motors Corp. disclosed that it intends to spend one billion dollars on expansion and improvements this year.

Fairless said many of the steel expansion programs were already under way. He estimated that money spent for expansion this year would amount to about $1,200,000,000. He said:

"The new expansion will involve great engineering, industrial and financial problems. Companies must again seek new sources of ores, open additional new mines and construct new taconite processing facilities. New sources of raw materials necessitate construction of new railroads and ships. This is in addition to construction of new blast furnaces, rolling mills and other finishing equipment.

"Steel's greatest problem is to get the money required to carry the expansion that the country expects."

Since the end of World War II, the nation's steel capacity has been raised by 36 million tons, or 40 percent, to a total of 128 million tons. Projects planned for the next three years would bring total capacity to 143 million tons.

Surge of Cold Air Hits South Again But Misses Florida

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A fresh surge of cold air sent temperatures tumbling over broad areas of the South today, but Florida, hit by a long and damaging cool spell, escaped the icy air.

Freezing weather was reported in much of the South except near the Gulf Coast and Florida. The cold air which spread south to the Gulf Coast yesterday moved southeast and eastward and extended over areas in Georgia, the Carolinas and Virginia.

Snow fell in parts of Virginia, with a fall of 2 inches reported at Gordonsville. The same amount fell in Baltimore.

In Jackson, Miss., and Charlotte, N.C., the temperature was 29.

At the same time, it was 60 at the Miami airport, some 15 degrees higher than 24 hours earlier.

This morning's coldest weather was in the Northern Plains with below-zero readings again today in sections of the Dakotas. It was -15 today at Grand Forks, N. D. Freezing weather prevailed in the Great Lakes region and in the Northeast.

Light snow fell in the plains southward into Oklahoma. Snow also fell on the East Coast from Virginia northward.

The front door to the Larro Feeds, 419 West Main, was found open by the police at 10:30 p.m. It was later learned the employees were working in a building next door and they had left it unlocked.

Jim Eschbacher, 1101 West Second, reported to the police that while his Mercury sedan was parked in back of the old post office building, Second and Lamine, four Cadillac hub caps were stolen off of his car. The car was parked there about 7:30 and remained there until 11:45 p. m.

Four hub caps, two Plymouths, a Ford, and a Chevrolet, were found in a ditch in front of 431 North Washington today. They were turned over to the police where the owners can identify and claim.

The front door to Keanie Miller real estate office was found unlocked. Police locked the door and left a note for Miller.

Police found a parked Mercury sedan on Kentucky across from the Harlem club with the windshield broken out. It had been smashed by a bottle. The car was identified from a Whiteman AFB sticker as belonging to an airman.

A door at the O'Connor Chevrolet-Buick garage was found loose by the police early Tuesday morning. A check revealed the lock had just jarred loose and that there had not been attempted break-in.

A/3c Edward R. Conn, 20, Whiteman Air Force Base, charged with careless driving on South Limit from 16th to the city limits, failed to appear in police court and his $25 cash bond was ordered forfeited.

Accidents
A man identified as Victor J. Chapman, Jr., 24, St. Louis, let his feelings get the best of him Saturday night. It resulted in the demolishing of his new 1956 Oldsmobile sedan on the Smithton curve, just east of Smithton on Highway 50, early Sunday morning.

Sgt. E. W. Van Winkle of the State Highway Patrol reported Chapman told him he had left his girl in St. Louis about 11:30 Saturday night after attending a show and became mad at her. Sgt. Van Winkle said Chapman told him that when he got mad he decided to "drive it off" and drove to Kansas City and was enroute back to St. Louis.

He became a little drowsy as he came into the Smithton curve a little too fast, lost control of the machine and rolled it.

"The car was demolished and Chapman was then good and mad," Sgt. Van Winkle reported.

The patrol report estimated the damage at "more than $2,000." Besides Chapman had to pay the farmer $10 for damage to the fence.

Charles M. Norman, Route 1, Knob Noster, escaped injuries about 5:30 a.m. Tuesday when his car rolled over on Highway 50 about a half-mile west of the Pettis-Johnson County line.

Norman was driving a 1953 Pontiac coach east on the highway when his car struck a slick spot on the pavement and skidded to the north shoulder. As the car struck the shoulder, it flipped over.

Considerable damage resulted to the automobile.

Sgt. E. W. Van Winkle of the State Highway Patrol conducted an investigation.

Fires
Fire believed to have started from spontaneous combustion in the freight car paint shop of the Missouri Pacific Shops caused damage estimated at over $5,000 about 11:50 p. m. Monday.

Quick work on the part of Sedalia fire fighters checked the flames which could have been very destructive to other shop buildings had it gotten beyond control. The fire was roaring in the small building when the fire companies pulled up to the scene of fire, but quick action in getting a line of hose laid out and water on the fire brought it under control in a matter of minutes.

Extension Club Hears About Sewing Methods

At its first meeting of 1956, the Neighborhood Neighbors Extension club discussed its plan of work for the year and finished filling out yearbooks.

Mrs. Ed Werneke reported on the first of four meetings for clothing leaders. This first meeting gave basic instructions in selecting materials for easier and better sewing and in choosing a pattern to suit the individual figure. Along this same line, roll call was answered with, "New Fabrics I Have or Have Not Found Practical."

Parliamentary procedure was outlined by the club president, Mrs. Irvin Smith. This emphasized that attention to the presiding officer is one of the simplest and most important rules to be followed.

For devotional, Mrs. Werneke gave "A Good Homemaker's Ten Commandments."

In recognition of the club's 11th anniversary, Mrs. Thomas J. Raines read the club's history, and Mrs. Myron C. Harper lighted the candles on a birthday cake.

The club meeting was at the home of Mrs. Jerry Vardeman. Mrs. Harper will entertain in Feb.

A guest at the meeting was Mrs. Joe K. Jenkins.

A Strike Proves Something

An interesting observation on the Detroit newspaper strike which has happily ended, is the effect it had on business. Millions of dollars in sales were lost. Workers with increased wages now will be a long time getting back what they lost during the prolonged strike. The public remains irritated over the inconveniences brought about.

Detroit merchants without newspapers to advertise their merchandise were hard put to attract shoppers' attention. They tried all sorts of media, including handbills. Christmas trade was well up in the higher brackets all over the country; but not in Detroit.

With all due respect to radio and television, which has its place in the entertainment and institutional advertising field, a story about the Detroit strike conditions indicates these media have their weakness in effective merchandise advertising. Listeners couldn't remember the items and prices broadcast. This resulted in a big sale of tape recorders which prospective shoppers would use to record advertising messages coming over the air so they could play back the announcements over and over. Without newspaper advertising space that's the hard way to move bargains and specials — everybody can't afford tape recorders, or the time to listen to repeated playbacks.

Community problems that arise from lack of newspapers are certainly not limited to the big cities. The smaller towns, such as Sedalia, Jefferson City, Columbia, Warrensburg, Marshall, Windsor, Warsaw, Versailles, are equally dependent upon the weeklies and dailies that serve them. Especially in the small town the newspaper is a running record of its history, a thread that constantly touches the lives of all the people who live there. Despite the newer advertising media, the newspaper remains the most effective means of advertising for merchants and others.

Rayburn Denounces GOP Partisanship

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower affectionately refers to Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas as "Mr. Sam," but there was nothing affectionate about Mr. Sam's comments on Ike's administration during a secret caucus of House Democrats the other day. The Texan bluntly declared the GOP administration as "100 per cent political."

No administration has been as political or as partisan as this one," Rayburn told his fellow Democrats. "When we Democrats controlled the Presidency we consulted with the Republicans on everything — domestic as well as international policies."

"But now that they are in power, they don't consult with us on anything," blazed the Texan. "They run a one-party show on everything, even appointments. In past years, under Democratic Presidents, we always saw to it that the Republicans had a say in appointing real Republicans to the bipartisan boards and commissions of the government. But Democrats don't get the same consideration today."

Rayburn seemed particularly irritated about the ousters of Democrats Jim Mead, ex-Senator from New York, from the Federal Trade Commission and Josh Lee, ex-Senator from Oklahoma, from the Civil Aeronautics Board.

"Jim Mead and Josh Lee were trying to represent the people, but they were fired for their pains," protested Rayburn. "What's more, they and others aren't being replaced by real Democrats on these supposedly bipartisan boards. Instead, to take their places, the Republicans are getting men registered as Democrats but who are Republicans at heart."

Democrats who heard him at the closed-door meeting agreed that they haven't seen "Mr. Sam" wrothier since Vice President Nixon and other GOP-ers labeled the Democrats as the "Party of Treason." He was really steamed up. "Giveaway" Gas Bill

The President-elect of Brazil, Juscelino Kubitschek, has no idea that he played any part in the hot Senate debate over the regulation of natural gas.

Nevertheless, it was because of him that secret debate inside the Democratic policy committee was abruptly shut off and it was decided to toss the entire question out onto the Senate floor for debate — even if it did split the Democratic party right down the middle.

What happened was that the policy committee was meeting behind closed doors to decide whether to vote the gas bill out for general discussion. Both sides had put out some eloquent pleas, one of the most eloquent coming from Sen. Paul Douglas of Illinois.

"I am not going to discuss this bill on the merits," he told the 11 Democrats who control Senate policy. "Though there are plenty of merits I could discuss against it. But I want to talk only from the point of view of politics."

"In 1954 the Democratic party had two issues — the recession and the giveaways."

"Now there is no recession," continued Douglas. "Unless there is some change in the next few weeks, it will not be an issue. And if you vote this bill out, then giveaways won't be an issue, for the Republicans will put the giveaway tag on us. They will claim we gave away natural gas regulation to the big oil and gas companies at the expense of the housewife."

"Do you think the offshore oil bill hurt the Democrats in 1954?" asked Senator Kerr of Oklahoma, a routin' tootin' booster of the natural gas bill.

"As I recall it," replied Douglas, "the Republicans were in control of Congress at that time and General Eisenhower was elected on a pledge to return offshore oil to the states. Today the Democrats are in control and Eisenhower very carefully refrained from recommending the passage of this bill."

The closed-door debate had now lasted some time. Suddenly word came that the President-elect of Brazil was in the Vice President's anteroom waiting to address the Senate. Hastily, in order not to keep him waiting, the policy committee voted to bring out the natural gas

MEMPHIS COMMERCIAL APPEAL: Nahum Foresaw it. Traffic records compiled by American motorists during the Christmas and New Year long holidays recently inspired a great deal of earnest and eloquent comment. Thus far, however, we have run into nothing more realistic than the fourth verse of the second chapter of Nahum, a prophet of old who must have foreseen the automobile age. He wrote: "The chariots shall rage in the streets, they shall jostle one against another in the broad ways: they shall seem like torches, they shall run like the lightnings."

bill as the first item of debate in the new session of Congress. Probably the result would have been the same anyway, but the arrival of President Kubitschek speeded up the decision.

Diplomatic Pouch

Secretary of State Dulles has been grumbling privately against British Prime Minister Eden, who's arriving here at the end of this month. Dulles claims he warned Eden against the Baghdad Pact which has kicked up riots in Jordan and caused the British to fly troops to the Near East. Eden, however, ignored his advice, Dulles complains. . . . A special contingent of Russian Air Force and tank experts has arrived in Communist Czechoslovakia. They will train specially selected Egyptians, flown to Czechoslovakia, to learn how to use Russian planes, tanks and submarines in the Arab states. . . . Gen. Nathan Twining, Air Force chief, has told the White House that the Air Force could complete its aerial inspection of Russia in six months — if the President's aerial inspection plan is ever adopted. Twining was summoned to the White House recently to give his views on aerial inspection to Ike and Secretary of State Dulles. Twining pointed out that our fast jet planes, using modern photographic equipment, could photograph all of Russia's key defense areas from the air in half a year. . . . The Defense Department is planning to shoot, not one, but nine earth satellites into space, beginning next year.

Three of the most famous generals of recent years — Douglas MacArthur, Omar Bradley and Matthew B. Ridgway — had some critical things to say once they were out of uniform about the way the man in the White House handled the armed forces.

The latest is Ridgway who, in a Saturday Evening Post article out today, makes a slashing attack on the Eisenhower administration's treatment of the Army and plainly implies President Eisenhower misrepresented him before Congress.

MacArthur was the first to sound off, and with the loudest repercussions. After President Truman sacked him, he blasted the President's handling of the Korean War and kept on blasting. That was in 1951.

Any fading he did from the newspaper headlines wasn't noticeable until after the Republicans' 1952 convention where some delegates thought he ought to be president. The Saturday Evening Post seems to have an affinity for old generals. That is where Bradley, like Ridgway, raised a cautioning voice. But Bradley was far less critical than Ridgway about Eisenhower's ideas on defense.

Bradley had been made chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff by Truman. Even though Bradley was an old Army pal of Eisenhower, the new President seemed determined to get rid of as many Truman appointees as possible.

He decided to let Bradley retire at age 60 and replace him as chairman of the Joint Chiefs with Adm. Arthur W. Radford. On Aug. 19, 1953, four days after he had stepped out of military life, Bradley's story appeared in the Post.

Eisenhower, anxious to fill a Republican campaign promise to cut government spending, began cutting into military spending by five billion dollars. Eisenhower argued this was more defense at less cost.

Bradley cautioned against letting security be endangered by too much economy. He acknowledged he had made a mistake himself in setting defense spending sights too low before the Korean War.

Eisenhower and Secretary of Defense Wilson did some of their economizing at the expense of the Army. Ridgway, while still Army chief of staff, protested to Congress about this.

Eisenhower didn't seem to appreciate Ridgway's criticism. He called it "parochial." Ridgway, 60 last year, could have been kept on two years more as chief of staff. Eisenhower let him retire last year.

Now, in the Post article, Ridgway says the administration's cuts in the Army were "almost entirely" for economic and political reasons, not for military ones. He said "pressure" was put on him to persuade him to go along with the cuts.

He says he was baffled when, despite his protests, Eisenhower told Congress the Joint Chiefs of Staff were unanimously behind his military program, which included cuts in the Army.

As Sedalia Sees It—

German Energy Shown In Quickly Rebuilding Hanover

By Walt Dear
Our Correspondent in Germany
HANOVER, GERMANY — This sparkling city was a living cemetery just ten years ago with people starving in gutted cellars, scraping for food in the streets, fighting over a discarded cigarette butt.

Even the citizens here are amazed. A German friend of mine, returning to Hanover after two years' study in Nebraska, had to look twice to believe that his home town had changed so much. He saw skyscrapers (constructed in three months) and brand new shopping centers built by men working in three shifts, round the clock.

The recovery of Hanover is amazingly complete. This city, heavily industrialized for the Hitler war machine, was 83 per cent bombed out during the war. Its population decreased to about 400,000 and, after evacuation from the intense bombing raids, only 250,000 remained. After the war, the biggest job was immediately to clear the streets, restore electric light, and bring back bus and train service. In the beginning, often the only way to get a train was to ride piggy-back style aboard a coal car!

All this has changed in a brief ten years. The German energy, a revival in business, and American dollars have created new cities, new buildings. The street cars are new as are the sidewalks. In Hanover, the visitor has to search for war damage not so in Bremerhaven, the port of embarkation for American soldiers, where one can still see the skeletons of churches.

The reconstruction is not haphazard. Cities have employed the best architects to provide for large squares, parks, business and residential sections. The Hanover architect was recently forced to resign because he had assisted Hitler in various projects.

Still, his work remains. Even such matters as neon signs came under his scrutiny. Only blue and yellow signs are allowed in certain business districts for "eye ease" and reasons of exterior decor.

How can the Germans, beaten in two wars, and in the second one demolished at home and in the family, come back so fast? Perhaps the urge to survive is the answer or to show the world that Germany is not finished as a nation.

After World War II, Secretary of Treasury Henry Morgenthau sponsored a plan that would have reduced Germany to an agricultural explain why things were already in the bag.

Last year the items were all around the place for the plate as Sedalia does it and this particular man brushed everything off the table into his sack. Later he found that he had no butter and was very much disturbed because they had forgotten to give him butter for his rolls.

When he arrived home his young son was, as all children are when mother and dad come home from the Chamber banquet with a loot bag, very much delighted. He began taking out the things one at a time and looking at the name of the advertiser.

"Who gave you the butter, Dad?" he asked when he could find no advertiser's name on the little pat of butter.

"Butter?" repeated the dad, and looked toward his son who was holding up the small paper plate on which was a pat of butter. So that was what had happened to his butter, he had simply brushed it off into the sack with the other items.

Right then and there he made up his mind that the next Chamber of Commerce dinner the loot would be already sacked up so he wouldn't come home with some of the silverware or maybe the table decorations. Thus, this year the loot was sacked.—H.L.

al nation and abolished its industrial potential. Over a bottle of beer some German acquaintance of mine asked each other, "Who lost the war?" Significantly they answered, "The British." This opinion reflects Germany's fast comeback as compared to England's program of austerity. The German resourcefulness is making the British and other nations shiver, too. Germans have regained many of their old prewar markets and are providing lively competition for other countries in new enterprises.

An example of the German sharp mindedness is seen in Far Eastern sale of guitar and violin strings. After the war, American and British firms had a corner on the market but recently the Germans regained their old position, underbidding their competitors.

Yet, all is not so bright in the postwar picture of Germany. A pound of coffee sells for as high as 16 marks ($4), one cigarette costs 2½ cents, liverwurst, a supper must in the German diet, 87 cents a

British Star On Valuable Export List

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 14 (AP) — On the list of Britain's most valuable exports, the name of Alex Guinness must rank somewhere between Scotch whisky and Harris tweed.

The star of such delightfully British comedies as "The Lavender Hill Mob" and "The Man in the White Suit" has a face that has been Britain's fortune.

A dozen Guinness movies have earned 20 million badly needed American dollars for the royal treasury — all profit and mostly in the last five years. Some theater men say he is the greatest foreign box office draw ever to hit America.

By Hollywood norm, Guinness defies every rule for box office success. He is slight, bald and possesses the same kind of face that one might see in a crowded subway.

When MGM took Guinness and Grace Kelly for location scenes in Asheville, N. C., an admirer gushed that she thought him grand in "Mr. Hulot's Holiday." That was a French film starring Jacques Tati.

Yet this same anonymous quality has made Alec look different in every role he portrays. He is a master of the submerged characterization.

The caliber of his comedy is so high that he often has been hailed as the modern Chaplin. Yet, few people in this country know that he is well known in England for his "Hamlet" and "Richard III" and other serious work.

He appeared successfully on Broadway in T. S. Eliot's meta-physical drama "The Cocktail Party."

That was Guinness' second trip to the United States. He first came over here in 1941 as a Royal Navy lieutenant on pick-up duty.

His third, and both he and MGM hope it will not be his last — is his current trip to Hollywood to make "The Swan" with Grace Kelly. Every major Hollywood studio has been trying for years to lure Guinness, especially since that 20 million gross was mostly accomplished via limited audiences in big city art theaters.

He frankly admits that the chance to play opposite Miss Kelly was too good to pass up. So was the money.

Another thing entering into his decision was the property. "The Swan" is the romantic comedy based on Ferenc Molnar's play. In it, Guinness plays a world-weary

Funds For Soil, Water Conservation Available Through FHA Loans

Funds are available through soil and water conservation loans to provide wells and other sources of farmstead water supplies. Oscar H. DeWolf, Pettis County supervisor of the Farmers Home Administration, said today. DeWolf said he had noticed quite a few wells have gone dry as a result of the prolonged period of extremely dry weather and this source of funds may be helpful to some farmers.

Soil and water loans may also be made for materials, supplies, equipment and services directly related to establishment of soil conservation practices, for improvement of permanent pastures, drainage, irrigation, fencing, and similar purposes.

Applicants for such loans must be approved by the FHA County Committee composed of Clarence M. Purchase, William C. Corlew and Thomas U. Harvey. The Farmers Home Administration office is located at 209½ South Ohio.

Plan Lincoln Fair

At a special meeting held last week in Lincoln, it was voted to sponsor a fair sometime during the late summer or early fall. Another meeting is scheduled for Jan. 16 when the board members, superintendents and various department chairmen will be elected and appointed.

prince in search of a wife. It's got some meaty Guinness comedy sequences.

His first local appearance was at a press reception in his honor. It brought out one of the biggest turnouts in years. Later at the first annual Audience Awards banquet, Guinness was introduced along with many another screen notable. The 41-year-old Briton received a three-minute standing ovation — much longer than any other star present.

Other than his work, his life in Hollywood before he recently returned to England was relatively uncluttered. He lived at a hotel, stayed away from big parties and the usual night club haunts.

His desire for privacy is well known. It's almost a phobia with him. He lives in an aging house in London with his wife and 15-year-old son.

Saddler Defends Title Against Elorde Wed. Nite

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Although he has one decision against him and will be giving away 10 years in age, featherweight king Sammy Saddler will be a solid favorite to defend his 126-pound crown tomorrow night against Gabriel Elorde, the Filipino champion of the Orient.

Elorde, who won a 10-round decision from Sammy in a non-title 10-round bout last July 20 in Manila, will be the eighth champion from foreign countries that Saddler has met in defense of his title.

Prefight publicity has made much of the Flash's left-handed stance, which admittedly bothered Saddler in Manila, and the deadly seriousness with which he has trained for the bout.

Only 22 years old to Saddler's admitted 32, Elorde unquestionably will make a supreme effort to become the third Filipino in ring history to take a world title back home. The other two were lightweight Pancho Villa and middleweight Celerino Garcia.

But boxing men here who have watched both fighters, point out that Saddler has never lost more professional opponents. They don't think that this time is going to be any different. Saddler lost once to Elorde, they say, and this time he'll have his own answer to the southpaw Filipino.

Sullivan Thinks He Found Himself Again

NEW YORK (AP)—John L. Sullivan, former British middleweight champion, thinks he found himself again in last night's victory over rugged Tony Johnson of New York at St. Nicholas Arena.

Discouraged by the loss of his title in England, Sullivan came to America only to run into a technical knockout defeat at the hands of Eduardo Lausse. He won a preliminary match at Cleveland, then took care of Johnson.

"We'll get lots of work now," said Jersey Jones, Sullivan's U.S. representative.

At 163 1/2 pounds, Sullivan gave away nine pounds to Johnson, who weighed 172. The British middleweight crowded Tony to the ropes and outfought him in numerous exchanges as they stood head to head. There were no knockdowns.

San Francisco Dons Rated Nation's Leading Cage Team

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

You have to string along with a winner—especially when the winner carries it to record lengths—so the amazing Dons of San Francisco University are rated as the nation's leading college basketball team for the sixth straight week today.

The nation's sports writers and broadcasters picked them by a margin of nearly 150 points over equally unbeaten Dayton.

San Francisco racked up victories over Santa Clara and Fresno State last week to run its two-season winning streak to 39 straight games. That equaled the major college record, held by Long Island University and Seton Hall.

Kentucky moved ahead of Vanderbilt into fourth place in the rankings, Illinois pushed into sixth unbeaten major team, took over eighth and Louisville moved into the top 10.

Apparently these changes weren't just a matter of wins and losses, for the only displaced team that lost a game was Ohio State, which dropped from seventh to tenth after being thumped by Iowa early last week.

North Carolina State, a one-time loser, clung to third place, well in front of Kentucky. Illinois' thumping 96-72 victory over Indiana apparently impressed the voters more than Duke's three wins. Louisville caught their eyes by beating Notre Dame and Valparaiso to run up a 13-1 record.

The leaders, with first-place votes in parentheses:

1. San Francisco (87) ...1,257
2. Dayton (13) ...1,110
3. N. C. State (9) ...829
4. Kentucky (9) ...615
5. Vanderbilt (6) ...526
6. Illinois (1) ...458
7. Duke (1) ...438

He came out of retirement to lead the Browns to the title. "You'll be back," chided Joe Collins, New York Yankee first baseman, at the dinner. "They all do."

"No, I won't," said Graham. "I've had it."

"Wanna bet?" Collins said. "Sure, positively," said Graham. Graham became the sixth winner of the award. Previous winners included Phil Rizzuto and Alie Reynolds of the New York Yankees, heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano, ex-golf champion Ben Hogan and Willie Mays of the New York Giants.

Smith-Cotton sophomore and freshmen teams played Jan. 16 at Simmons Junior High School, Jefferson City, and won both games. The freshmen scored 32 over 30, and the sophomores scored 47 over 45.

These Are Great Times For Writers

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"These are great times for writers. The field is wide open."

This comes from Herman Wouk, and he should know. He is perhaps the most successful writer of recent years.

Wouk is the onetime gag writer for Fred Allen who turned his hand to serious writing after the war.

His first two novels, "Aurora Dawn" and "City Boy," were middling successes, as was a play, "The Traitor." But he busted loose with "The Caine Mutiny," one of the most popular books of the century.

Now his "Marjorie Morningstar" is booming on the best seller lists and may turn out a bigger hit than "Caine."

"The only real barometer of a book's success is the retail sales in book stores, excluding the book clubs," he remarked. "The publisher tells me that 'Caine' sold 400,000 copies in three years, and 'Marjorie' has sold 200,000 in three months. So she may well end up a bigger seller."

The dramatic rights will probably amount to more too. This is despite the fact that Wouk's

dramatization, "Caine Mutiny

Court Martial," was a hit on Broadway and the road.

Also, the movie is one of the biggest grossers of all time—$8-

700,000 in this country and Canada alone, according to Variety. But Wouk (pronounced Woke) realized only $30,000 for the rights.

"Unfortunately I sold it before

I realized it was going to be a hit.

The reviews dismissed it as mere entertainment; it was the public who discovered the book. Also, the studios were worried that the Navy wouldn't cooperate with the film.

Only Stanley Kramer agreed to take the chance."

He stands to do much better on

"Marjorie Morningstar."

He finally made a deal with producer Milton Sperling and Warner Brothers that could net him a million and more. He will be a 50 per cent partner in the film.

It's an unprecedented deal for a writer.

Israel, Syria Are Ready With More Arguments

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Israel and Syria readied more arguments on their bitter Galilee dispute today as the U.N. Security Council neared a decision on the Dec. 11 raid that claimed 56 Syrian lives.

Word spread that Israel would turn down any suggestion that she pay voluntary damages for loss of Syrian life and property in the raid on Syrian posts along the north-east shore of the Sea of Galilee.

Israeli sources said this is known as the Western Big Three worked out a resolution which reportedly calls on the U.N. secretariat to study how such compensation could be levied. All 11 council members already have agreed that Israel should be censured strongly for the attack.

Syria's Chief Delegate Ahmed

Shukairy, who brought the complaint before the council, has labeled the Galilee incident open aggression. He has demanded that Israel be thrown out of the U.N., subjected to economic penalties and be made to pay damages.

Israel's Ambassador Abba Eban has insisted the attack was designed to quiet Syrian guns that had fired on Israeli police and fishing ships plying the inland lake which lies just inside Israel's territory.

Ellender Says Ike Has Underestimated Farm Program's Cost

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Ellender (D-La.) said today it appears to him the administration may be trying to "balance the budget on paper" by underestimating farm price support costs in the next year.

President Eisenhower, in his budget sent to Congress yesterday, estimated price support losses for the bookkeeping year which starts next July 1 at $1,591,000,000.

This is 485 million less than the estimated losses for the current year.

The over-all surplus predicted by the President for the coming year was 435 million. It would thus be wiped out if farm price supports cost as much as is estimated this year.

Ellender told a reporter he supposed the Agriculture Department was guessing that the milk program and others responsible for heavy farm price support losses in the past would "work better next year."

"But I doubt if they will," he said. "It seems to me the losses are going to be about as big next year as in the past year."

Program Time Determines TV Strength

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—The high commands of the television networks long have had a fixed idea that what happens on their respective channels at 8 o'clock of a New York evening determines their strength.

This is an old notion that began in radio and has carried over to television. As Variety, the show business journal, points out, it's currently providing all the inter-network excitement these days.

You know the hot spots: Ed Sullivan on CBS Sunday evenings vs.

whatever NBC throws against him;

Perry Como on NBC Saturday evenings vs. Jackie Gleason on

CBS. And so it goes.

Well, I have a couple of questions. To me the whole issue is an interesting example of categorical—or rigor mortis—thinking.

Maybe I should be selling apples.

At any rate, my first question is:

8 o'clock where? The networks' answer is 8 o'clock in the East and 8 o'clock on the West Coast—via Kinescope. This, at least, is the method employed on several live shows originating in New York.

But what about the rest of the country? As an example, the Sullivan show, seen at 8 p.m. in the Eastern time zone, is viewed at 7 p.m. central time and 6 p.m.

mountain time—and 8 p.m. on the Pacific Coast.

But why is it important that viewers on both coasts see it at 8 p.m. and unimportant whether midland and mountain audiences see it at 7 p.m. and 6 p.m.? Well, the New York experts patiently explain, there are more TV sets in the East and Far West.

That still doesn't answer the question of WHY 8 p.m. is such a sacrosanct hour in the lives of a majority of the American public.

The answer, I submit, is that 8 o'clock is of little significance beyond shouting distance of network offices in New York and Hollywood. Perhaps the best way to demonstrate that is to list here

the most widely viewed TV programs, as determined by the most recently available figures from the

A. C. Nielsen Co. Here they are in order of popularity, with the hours they're shown in the Eastern time zone:

The $64,000 Question, 10 p.m.; the

Ed Sullivan Show, 8 p.m.; I Love

Lucy, 9 p.m.; Jack Benny, 7:30 p.m.; Disneyland, 7:30 p.m.; December Bride, 9:30 p.m.; Dragnet,

8:30 p.m.; You Bet Your Life, 8 p.m.; The Millionaire, 9 p.m.

In short, two of these top shows appear in what most network and agency executives consider that 8

Baby Developed In Mother's Abdomen Getting Along Fine

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—A baby girl, who developed in her mother's abdomen instead of the uterus, was reported "getting along fine" in Toledo Hospital.

Doctors said there are records of only 50 other babies being delivered alive under similar circumstances.

This baby, born Thursday, developed to within three weeks of the full term before her delivery.

She weighed 4 pounds 13 ounces.

Doctors said the unusual pregnancy was caused by the failure of the microscopic ovum to return to the uterus of the mother after it

Important Dates Ahead For Farmers

There are some very important dates just ahead for most self-employed farmers, Scott Webber, district manager of the Sedalia social security office, declared today.

He was referring to persons self-employed in any kind of agricultural enterprise, either alone or in a partnership or joint venture, who had net earnings of at least $400 in 1955. They are required to report those earnings up to a total of $4,200 for their year and pay the 3 per cent social security tax. Earnings for 1955 are the first that farm operators and other agriculturists who work for themselves are required to report for social security purposes.

The report must be made and the social security tax paid along with the 1955 federal income tax return not later than April 15, 1956. Webber pointed out that this is mandatory regardless of whether the self-employed farmer owes any income tax for 1955. This would be the case if a farmer had four exemptions and net earnings for the year of less than $2,400. If that farmer's net earnings were as much as $400 in 1955, however, he has an obligation to fill out and file a return and pay the social security tax.

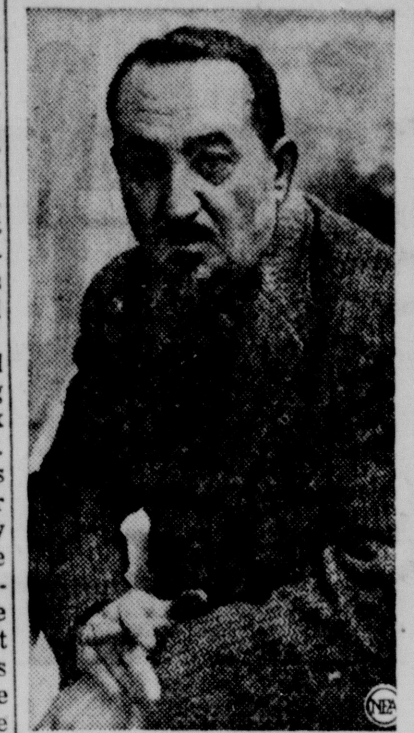

A self-employed farmer should file his return on Income Tax Return Form 1040. In most cases, he will enter his net earnings on Schedule F. This applies to farm operators not in a partnership and who conduct their agricultural enterprise on a cash basis. Webber calls special attention to the small form, Schedule SE, "U. S. Report of Self-Employment Income" (For Federal Old-Age and Survivors Insurance) which is at the bottom of the last page of Schedule F. This brief form is the report the farmer must make of his net earnings which will be credited to his social security account. On Schedule SE he will enter, in addition to his name and social security number, the amount of his total net earnings from self-employment in 1955, (if any) from which his wages have been deducted the employee share of the social security tax, and the amount of his self-employment income on which he is required to pay the social security tax.

"There is one important thing to bear in mind," Webber said. "While the small form Schedule SE is a part of Schedule F which, in turn, must be filed with Income Tax Return, Form 1040, the purpose of this brief form is wholly independent of the farmer's income tax form and schedule. The net earnings on which social security tax will be due on April 15 should be entered on Schedule SE. Because of the optional method for reporting earnings for social security purposes which can be used by low-income farmers who

Art For the Masses Says Something to Everybody

By GAIL DUGAS
NEA Women's Editor
NEW YORK — (NEA) — This month, in Manhattan, a real tough painter by the name of Remo Farruggio is having a one-man show at the John Heller Gallery.

He isn't tough in the sense of being muscular, though he's that, too. He's tough in that he knows what he wants to say in his paintings and, backed by technique and discipline, says it.

Remo Farruggio: You don't need an education to see beauty in the moon.

His paintings don't show a cow in a pasture or somebody who looks like your old Aunt Susie or the place where you went on vacation last summer. They show his concept of the sea on a stormy day, or the way Oregon looks in the spring and they're probably not at all the way you think these things look. His work is abstract.

Well, lots of people say, abstract painting doesn't say anything to me. I can't make sense out of it. "Well," Mr. Farruggio replies, "You don't need an education to see beauty in the moon. Just so, you don't need an intellectual approach to art in order to enjoy it. You can look at a painting and say, 'It's beautiful,' or 'the color is beautiful,' and that's enough. Picasso once said that he couldn't read a book in Chinese but that didn't mean that a Chinese book couldn't make sense."

Remo Farruggio is Italian. He came here from Sicily when he was 14 and went to live with his family in one of New York's toughest neighborhoods, East Harlem. "Most of my classmates," he remarks drily, "went to the electric chair. Really they did."

Instead of traveling up to Ossining, Mr. Farruggio attended the National Academy in New York. He was promptly tossed out for being difficult, as they put it, and he next graced the Industrial Art School, and then the Educational Alliance, sneaking into life class by means of drawings he borrowed from a chum.

After that, he did nothing for 10 years. He stopped painting entirely. Well, actually he did do something but what he did had nothing to do with art. He learned barbering, became a tinsmith, a carpenter and cabinet maker, dishwasher, silversmith and, during World War II, a mechanic.

But he started painting again in the early thirties, working on various artist's projects created by the WPA. It was the help and the encouragement and the sense of fellowship he got in this period that finally sent him back to painting for good.

"Fellow offered me a job the other day," he explains. "It pays $50,000 a year. What I was supposed to do was take a look at somebody's family portrait of old Uncle Fud and tell them what kind of frame they should have for it. Naturally, the people who sell the frames were the ones trying to hire me. I turned it down. I'd rather paint."

Anyone who loves beautiful things would rather have Mr. Farruggio paint. Which reminds me, it's time to go and have another look at Van Gogh's "Starry Night." But Van Gogh wasn't a very popular fellow when he first started out. The trouble was, people didn't understand what he was trying to say.

Canned vegetables are already cooked, so if you boil them instead of just heating them through thoroughly, you'll destroy food val-tion last summer. They show his concept of the sea on a stormy day, or the way Oregon looks in the spring and they're probably not at all the way you think these things look. His work is abstract.

Lincoln 4-H Club Chooses New Projects

The January meeting of the Lincoln 4-H Club was held at the High School Jan. 11. A short business meeting, presided over by Miss Lois Eken, was held. At this time, new projects for the year, including food preparation, food preservation and tractor maintenance, were chosen.

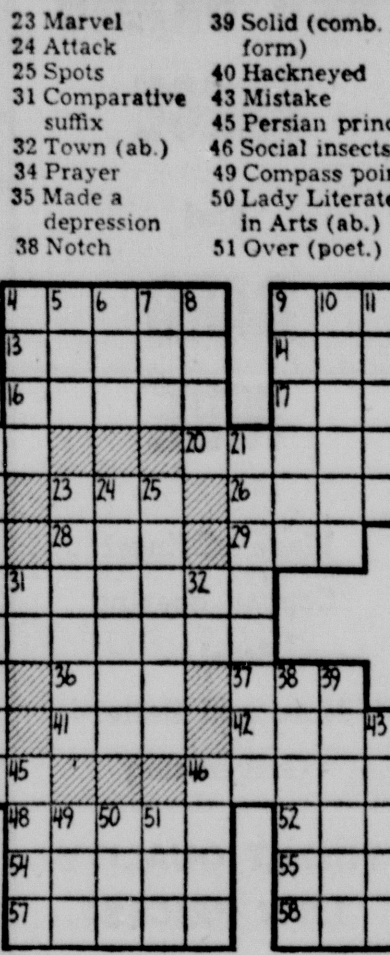

It was also decided, by several of the boys present, to enter the "one hundred bushels of corn to the acre" contest sponsored by the local MFA this year. As a supplementary activity, the group chose safety and wild life conservation.

The community leader, Mrs. Lee Suhl, reported on County Council. Each member gave his age at roll call.

The next meeting will be the second Wednesday night in Feb. at the high school building.

AN INVITATION... to the man who is driving any car in the medium-price class

How you can own a bigger, more powerful Chrysler Windsor V-8 for the cost of a medium-priced car

Frankly, we believe you will find that the Chrysler Windsor is the only real luxury car that sells at a medium price... a car far in advance of its contemporaries and ahead of its time. We would like to put you behind the wheel of this car... because we've found from actual comparative demonstrations that 3 out of 4 open-minded men who drive a Chrysler for the first time prefer it to anything else.

There are many reasons. In the first place, the 1956 Chrysler is the only car in its price class that has been completely restyled this year. It has that "hair-trigger" look for which designers have been striving many years. We call it "PowerStyle."

But there's more to the Chrysler story than styling. There's power... more power to pass safely when necessary... more power to drive without effort... more power to stop.

There is not a car on the road today as completely power-operated as the "PowerStyle" Chrysler. Its PowerFlite transmission is controlled by pushbuttons... the Spitfire V-8*... 280 hp in the New Yorker FirePower V-8 and now 340 hp in the blazing new Chrysler 300-B.

Then there is the all-important matter of brakes. Chrysler's newly designed PowerSmooth Brakes not only bring you safer, surer, straight-line stops—they outlast the others 2 to 1.

So if you have been driving another make of car in Chrysler's price class... ask yourself this question: Don't I want to know what my money can buy before I spend it? Then make a drive-them-both comparison. We'll leave everything else to your judgment.

*With the addition of the Chrysler Power Train at slight extra cost.
